

PAULO RIGOLIN

VICE PRESIDENT OF LATIN AMERICA

Paulo Rigolin is vice president of Latin America at Alltech. Most recently, he was the strategy director for Latin America, a position he held since his relocation to Brazil in 2017, where he worked intensely on the integration of Guabi into the global Alltech feed division, as well as aligning the Alltech Latin America strategy.

Rigolin began his career with Alltech in 2001 as a sales manager, primarily working in Paraná, Brazil. He then moved to São Paulo, Brazil, for three years and worked as a national business manager for the Brazilian poultry team, where he served as the Allzyme® Vegpro champion in Brazil.

In 2008, Rigolin relocated to the United States to serve as the Allzyme® SSF and Allzyme Vegpro global product champion, covering Latin America, Asia, the United States and Europe. Rigolin then coordinated the global poultry team as global poultry director, focusing on poultry accounts worldwide.

He received his veterinary degree in 1998 in Presidente Prudente, Brazil, and specialized in marketing in 2000 at Fundação Getulio Vargas-São Paulo. He received his master's degree in business administration in 2006 from Fundação Getulio Vargas-Londrina.

